Abstract

In a radio system data units are associated with sequence numbers in a user terminal. The data units are arranged in order of the sequence numbers associated with the data units in the network element of the radio system.